

CASE STUDY St. Raphael Church Koloa, Hawaii

The reputation of Sauder Worship Seating® as a premier supplier of congregational seating has earned recognition among many Catholic dioceses, including the historic St. Raphael Church in Koloa, Hawaii. The parish transitioned from flexible seating (chairs) to Sauder's custom-manufactured Radiance™ Curved Pews. This best fit the wide profile of the church sanctuary and altar, plus the architectural design of the space.

Sauder established a relationship with the Catholic Church in Hawaii years ago, forming the awarding of the St. Raphael's chapel renovation project in 2013. This project involved removing existing pews, refinishing floors, and installing Oaklok chairs, which provides flexibility in the limited space. At that time, plans to remodel the main sanctuary were in the exploratory stages. Their satisfaction with Sauder's service, product and performance in the chapel project, led to Sauder Worship Seating becoming the pew supplier for the upcoming project.

After a thorough on-site review and discussion with church leaders and construction managers, the Sauder Worship Seating team assisted St. Raphael Church with the selection, design, transportation logistics and installation of the curved pews. The project moved from inception to completion in a matter of months! Additional Sauder chancel furniture was also part of the remodeling project.
